Alice marries only to find her small-town Kentucky life as claustrophobic as the life she left. When a call goes out for a team of women to deliver books as part of Eleanor Roosevelt’s new traveling library, she signs on enthusiastically. Soon she and four other singular women become known as The Horseback Librarians. From the author of Me Before You and The Peacock Emporium.

A Dog’s Promise continues the story of Bailey, a dog whose journey started in A Dog’s Purpose (an international hit film) and continued in A Dog’s Journey (now a major motion picture). This time, Bailey is joined by Lacey, another special dog, who helps Bailey fulfill his promise over the course of several lives and bring joy, laughter, and comfort to a family fractured by life’s inevitable obstacles.

The New York Times best-selling author of Beautiful Exiles conjures her best novel yet, a pre-World War II-era story with the emotional resonance of Orphan Train and The Nightingale, centering on the Kindertransports that carried thousands of children out of Nazi-occupied Europe—and one brave woman, Tante Truus, as she is known, who is determined to save as many children as she can.

From the international best-selling author of Secret Daughter and The Golden Son, The Olander family embodies the modern American Dream in a globalized world. Jaya, the cultured daughter of an Indian diplomat and Keith, an ambitious banker from middle-class Philadelphia, meet in a London pub in 1988 and make a life together in suburban California with their two children. But love and prosperity cannot protect them from sudden, unspeakable tragedy.

When Pulitzer Prize winner Jhumpa Lahiri decided to read exclusively in Italian, a language she had studied for many years, her life as a reader—and writer—took a surprising turn. Complete immersion in this rich literary heritage brought fresh insight and unexpected freedom. This collection brings together forty writers who have shaped her love of the Italian language and profound appreciation for its literature.

In the wake of the police shooting of a black teenager, Los Angeles is as tense as it’s been since the unrest of the early 1990s. Protest and vigil are being staged all over the city. It’s in this dangerous tinderbox that two families—one Korean-American, one African-American—must finally confront their pasts and grapple with the effects of a decades-old crime. Powerful and taut.

This collection brings together some of the finest writers in the English language. Each novel is told from the vantage point of a woman writer, who through her life and her craft investigates the motivations for storytelling, the questions of vulnerability and power, the tension between truth and representation, and the ultimate value of suffering. “Cusk has triumphed in the completion of this masterly trilogy.” — Sally Rooney, Slate

In this brilliant sequel to The Handmaid’s Tale, acclaimed author Margaret Atwood answers the questions that have tantalized readers for decades. When the van door slammed on Offred’s future, readers had no way of telling what lay ahead for her—freedom, prison, or death. Atwood’s sequel picks up the story fifteen years after Offred stepped into the unknown, with the explosive testimonials of three female narrators from Gilead.

Movies
(And Other Things)
By Shea Serrano, Arturo Torres
$25, Illustrated
In this graphic mash-up of everything we love about movies, New York Times bestselling author Shea uses his pop culture sensibility to ask questions and answer them, managing to combine the fury of a John Wick shootout, the sly brilliance of Regina George holding court at a cafeteria table, and the power of a Denzel monologue. One chapter even answers which race Kevin Costner was able to white savior the best.

Alice’s Adventures in Wonderland & Through the Looking-Glass
By Lewis Carroll
$29.99, Illustrated with Interactive Elements
Lewis Carroll’s beloved companion stories are reinvented in one volume by the talented design firm MinaLima, whose drawings of some of Western literature’s most famous characters will delight and enthrall.
